Opening: “Daydream from 2013” at CANADA

Potatoes, a frog skeleton, puddles made of resin. What do these have to do with each other? Well, they are parts of an upcoming show at the gallery CANADA titled “Daydream from 2013.” Curator Matthew Flaherty, who chatted with us over the phone, said the exhibit is meant to evoke a dream-like stream of consciousness and is based on the 1970s Russian sci-fi film Solaris by Andrei Tarkovsky.

CANADA 333 Broome St, New York, N.Y. 10002. July 22, 6pm-8pm. Free to all, no rsvp required.
