The best New York art exhibitions: from Bruce Nauman to Gillian Wearing(Review)

New York's oldest non-profit alternative art space invited photographer Mary Manning to select the works for its 12th White Columns Annual - the first iteration of the serial group show to run since the start of the pandemic. Previous selectors - tasked with curating a show based on works or artists they have encountered in New York during the past year - have included artists, curators, writers, collectives. Manning was selected in part due to their prolific mileage covered and their support of emerging New York artists (they often post highlights on their personal Instagram @marymanningg). Titled 'Looking Back', featured artists include Nicole Eisenman, Nan Goldin, Gordon Parks, Arthur Simms, Diamond Stingily, Sophie Stone and more.
