

FRIEZE

Natasha Boas in Critic's Guides, et al. "What to See during San Francisco Art Week." Frieze, <https://www.frieze.com/article/what-see-during-san-francisco-art-week-2022>.

What to See During San Francisco Art Week (Review)

Rebecca Camacho Presents

15 January – 18 February

East Bay artist Sahar Khoury continues to surprise with her use of materials in 'Orchard' – her latest outing at Rebecca Camacho Presents. Last time I fell in love with a Khoury piece, she had worked her own leather belts into a sensual ceramic form (Untitled [yellow blue green spots with brown and black belts], 2020). This time, in a meditation on nature, the artist has combined walnut and apple wood from the trees in her Oakland garden with metal, ceramic and papier-mâché to create what the press release describes as 'two- and three-dimensional landscape constructions', resembling theatrical stage-set maquettes. By incorporating her daily life into her work – re-creating a segment of her home in Untitled (upper left corner of our living room rug) (2021), for instance, or depicting her cat in Untitled (Lola sitting on a walnut rug slab in window) (2021) – for Khoury, all the world's a stage.

Sahar Khoury, Untitled (Lola sitting on walnut rug slab in window), 2021, stoneware, aluminium, cement, polystyrene, powder-coated steel and rug remnants, 76 × 51 × 45 cm.
Courtesy: © the artist and Rebecca Camacho Presents, San Francisco; photograph: Robert Divers Herrick