See Sales Highlights from 10 Galleries at This Year's Frieze New York

Joan Snyder's abstract painting Birth (1972) sold for a price between $200,000-$300,000. Brought by Franklin Parrasch, which also has a solo dedicated to the artist at its New York gallery, the painting features blotted brushstrokes in hues of orange, red, pink, purple, and green against a beige canvas that is part of the American artist's breakout series of "stroke paintings," which she began in the late '60s as a way to deconstruct modes of abstraction that came before her.
