A Maine event at the Frye

Katherine Bradford's 1999 painting "Woman in Water" is on view this month at the Frye Art Museum. (Katherine Bradford)

This winter, the Frye Art Museum brings the East Coast to the West Coast with two intriguing new exhibits by Maine artists Katherine Bradford and Marsden Hartley. While they worked in different times — Bradford was born in 1942, the year before Hartley died — and are on view in separate shows, both painters turn to the water, sky and nature, and the ways that humans literally and figuratively show up there. - MVS
